JAPAN'S FIRST REVERSE.

Courageous Attack on Port Arthur Ends Disastrously for the Japanese.

FRANCE HAS PRETEXT TO AID RUSSIA.

Japanese Attempted to Block the Narrow Channel Leading to the Inner Harbor but were Foiled in the Attempt. London Depressed. Paris Elated. St. Petersburg greatly Excited over the Japanese Reverse.

[BULLETIN SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.]

Reverse for the Japs.

St. Petersburg, February 24.—It is officially announced from Port Arthur that four Japanese battleships and two Japanese transports have been sunk in a fresh attack on Port Arthur. The attack was repulsed.

Paris, February 24. A despatch to the Havas agency from Port Arthur says that four Japanese cruisers and two Japanese transports have been sunk in a fresh attack on Port Arthur. The despatch adds that the attack was repulsed and the Russian battleship Retvizan covered herself with glory.

Heading for Chennampo.

Wei Hai Wei, February 24. Four Japanese battleships and nine cruisers passed this Port to-day bound Eastward.

Movements of Land Troops.

Shang Hai, February 24. The Japanese army corps landed at Chennampo, Corea, totalling about 30,000 men has already been deployed between Seoul and Ping Yang. The advance guards are even northward of the latter place. Owing to the partial thaw the roads are bad and the transportation of provisions and war munitions is most difficult.

England Not Alone concerned.

London, February 23.—There is no truth in the rumors of negotiations among the powers concerned respecting the passage of the Russian Black sea fleet through the Dardanelles says the Paris correspondent of the Times. The disturbance of International equilibrium which it might and probably would entail can hardly be a matter of indifference to other powers besides England.

The Bear Hates Uncle Sam.

St. Petersburg, February 23.—The statements that the American warship Vicksburg refused to take the Russians aboard from the sinking ships at Chennampo and also that orders were supposed to have been given to American ships to proceed North have added to the steadfast impression here that the United States is financially backing Japan and the constantly growing aggravation against the United States which all here now admit is assuming serious proportions.

King Edward Moving for Peace.

New York, February 23.—The American Paris cables say, "Efforts to end the war between Japan and Russia are being made by King Edward of England. The bearer of proposals from the King to the Czar is to be Count Benckendorff, Russian ambassador to Great Britain who left London hurriedly on Saturday. Intimations have been received that Russia would accept any overtures for peace on a reasonable basis."

Details of the Reverse.

New York, February 25.—Admiral Toga has evidently tried as Rear-Admiral Sampson did at Santiago to bottle up the opposing fleet in a narrow neck harbor. While reports are conflicting, it is clear the attempt was made to send in steamers (old transports probably) and sink them in the channel which in some places is not more than one hundred yards wide.

Details are lacking but it is not likely that the daring attempt was successful. It may safely be assumed that the Russians had regular vedette of destroyers and cruisers well out from the entrance and that an inner line of torpedo boats and launch pickets was maintained. With these to give the alarm the chances are strong that the Japanese were sunk by the fire of the forts and cruisers long before reaching the narrow channel, and at a point where there is plenty of room for ships to pass. Earlier reports that the Japs lost four battleships or cruisers are explained by the later news. "Fire ships" are not used in modern naval warfare.

London was depressed and Paris elated by the earlier despatches announcing a Japanese disaster. St. Petersburg was greatly excited over the semi-official news of a great Russian victory but no official details were vouchsafed and the puzzled crowds dispersed. Admiral Alexieff's official report stated that the channel is still open and navigable. The Channel and points where Japs were sunk is not more than 350 yards wide. Two large transports swung across the channel would nearly block such a passage but as the attempt with the Merriam at Santiago showed it is not easy to handle ships under such circumstances and the vessels were partly beached broadside on.

Opportunities for Complications.

The Japanese treaty with Corea is a surprise to diplomatists. It is considered that it might make effective France's agreement to come to Russia's aid, if the latter power becomes involved in a war with two nations.

Viceroy Alexieff's Report.

St. Petersburg, February 25.—A telegram from Viceroy Alexieff to the Czar says, "At a quarter before three in the morning of February 24, Japanese Torpedo boats attempted to attack the battleship Retvizan and sink some large steamers loaded with inflammables. The Retvizan was first to observe the torpedo boats and opened a strong fire on them. She was supported by the land batteries. She destroyed two steamers near the entrance of the harbor. They were coming directly towards her. One of them went on the rocks near the lighthouse on Tigar Peninsula and the other sank under Golden Hill. Retvizan observed four steamers in a sinking condition and eight torpedo boats departing slowly to join the waiting Japanese war ships. A portion of the crews of the Japs vessels were drowned. The grounded steamer is still burning. The enemy is observed in the offing of Port Arthur in two lines. The Japs crews saved themselves in boats and it is possible that some of them were picked up by the enemy's torpedo boats. I am proceeding to examine the coasts. The entrance of the harbor is opened. I attribute the complete defeat of the enemy's plan to the brilliant action and destructive fire of the Retvizan. Floating mines are still visible in the roadstead. I have recalled the three cruisers sent in pursuit of the enemy in order in the first place to clear the roads of floating mines. We have no losses."

THE WAR.

Although the war between Russia and Japan is far away geographically and politically the interest that is taken in it here shows that with the use of steam and electricity the world is becoming smaller, and therefore great events are coming closer every day. The battle which takes place on the east coast of Manchuria to-day is reported in the press of the world next morning. Allowance of course has to be made for the source from which the report comes and whether it tells of defeat or victory for the nation sending it, but after all allowances are made it would appear that so far victory has been with Japan especially on the sea.

Dislike and distrust of Russia is the traditional policy of Britain and naturally the sympathy of the British people is with Japan. But leaving prejudice aside, although Japan began offensive operations Russia was unquestionably the aggressor. Japan's action was dictated by the belief that attack was the best defence.

The dispute between Russia and Japan is as to the partition of China, and the domination of Korea. China is the oldest state in the world unless perhaps Japan. Its civilization is the most ancient and its people more numerous than those of any other single country. The country is large, and rich in natural resources and its people most industrious. Although numerous they are not warlike and their political institutions are in decay. China proper and the vast empire which it controls has in the opinion of the western world reached a point at which the only question that remains is who shall take it over or amongst whom shall it be divided. Possibly the western world may be mistaken. That remains to be seen. For the present it looks as though the huge success of Britain in India only awaits repetition in China by the power or combination of powers daring or able to take advantage of the circumstances. Mutual jealousy is all that has so far kept the western powers from helping themselves to all there is of China.

Russia is to some degree a western nation. It is also an eastern nation. Its dominion stretches across the whole northern part of Asia, and adjoins the Chinese empire for several thousand miles. But Siberia is as yet practically undeveloped and to a very great extent incapable of development, while China is populous and highly developed. The east coast ports of Siberia are ice bound during the winter, the ports of China are always open. Nothing could be more natural than that Russia should claim the first and greater right in the partition of China. And the belief of the other nations is that nothing less than the whole Chinese Empire is the object of her ambition.

Japan is an island empire, as old and as highly civilized and developed as China. Of late years Japan has shaken off the shadows of centuries and has become ambitious to rank with the western powers in world influence and especially in influence in China. She established her right to that position by attacking and defeating China on land and sea a few years ago.

A third empire of ancient civilization on the Pacific, people by a portion of the same branch of the human family as China and Japan is Korea. Korea occupies a large peninsula extending southerly from the east coast of Manchuria which is the most northerly province of the Chinese empire, and at its southern extremity is only separated by a narrow strait from the most southerly of the islands of Japan. Korea divides the sea of Japan which lies between the Japanese islands and the main land of Asia from the Yellow or Chinese sea.

The Amur river, which flows easterly into the northern part of the sea of Japan is the boundary between Siberia and Manchuria, and its southern extremity is only separated by a narrow strait from the most southerly of the islands of Japan. Korea divides the sea of Japan which lies between the Japanese islands and the main land of Asia from the Yellow or Chinese sea.

The Yalu river is a part of the boundary between Korea and Manchuria. Vladivostok is the terminus of the Siberian railway on the sea of Japan and is closed by ice during part of the year.

Port Arthur, in Manchuria, is the terminus of the same railway on the Yellow sea and is open all the year round.

Shortly after the Siberian railway had been completed to Vladivostok which was the most southerly Siberian port, Russia found occasion to quarrel with China. The result was the temporary occupation of Manchuria which lies between Siberia and China proper by Russia as security for the payment of the war indemnity. While in this occupation Russia opened a branch of the Siberian railway from Harbin through Manchuria to Port Arthur, thereby securing an open port all the year round for her transcontinental railway. According to agreement Russia should have withdrawn from Manchuria some time ago, but instead of withdrawing she has been continually strengthening her position. Russia's occupation of Manchuria places her in a position to command both Korea and China proper at will, and consequently the western nations and especially Japan see their chance of a share in the spoils of China and Korea, getting smaller as Russia's military force in Manchuria gets larger. Japan has always looked upon Korea as her most in case of any general break up of existing conditions, with such share of China as she could get in the general scramble. But if Russia gets enough soldiers into Manchuria good-bye both Korea and China and as well to Japan's present position of dominance on the Pacific coast of Asia. Russia has unquestionably shown her intention by her actions. The Japanese therefore decided to strike at once and to strike hard as every day's delay would make the position more difficult for Japan.

In taking the initiative as she did Japan is fighting the battles of the western powers. Japan only wants Korea and a part of China; leaving the rest of China to be divided up amongst the other powers. But Russia wants all of both Korea and China. If Japan wins other powers have to profit, but if Russia wins other powers won't even look in. Hence the very general and proper sympathy with Japan.

Although Japan is reckoned as a lesser military power than Russia, she is fighting in this war to great advantage. She is protected by and commands the sea and yet is close to the field of operations, while Russia is four thousand miles away and her only connection is a single narrow gauge railway, the connection of which is broken in one place at least by a lake. As this railway was fairly taxed to transport troops and supplies in time of peace, it can not possibly supply the transport for a vast army such as will have to be maintained if Japan uses business, as she certainly does. It looks as though Russia, which has been bluffing the world for half a century, is to be called down by a nation that twenty five years ago was not counted as a military power.

COUNCIL MEETING

An adjourned meeting of the Edmonton city council was held in the council chamber last night. Councillors Cushing, Ross, May, Grieson and Picard were present. J. K. Kennedy and N. D. Beck, solicitors, were also present.

The meeting was very long and most of the discussion was on the street railway agreement. Various amendments were made to the agreement arising out of Monday night's public meeting. These will be published in to-morrow's Bulletin. It was decided to submit the amended agreement to a vote of the ratepayers on March 10th. A thousand copies of the amended agreement will be printed and distributed.

The manager of the local branch of the Imperial Bank asked permission to move the present building to the rear of the lot upon which it stands in order that a large three storey solid brick building may be built during the coming summer. The request was granted.

The condition of the sewerage system near the General Hospital was discussed and was finally referred to a committee consisting of councillors May and Picard to bring in a report.

It was decided to refer Mr. Powell's claim for damages against the town to arbitration.

The question of leasing Sandison Hall for city offices commencing March 1st, was laid over for next meeting.

Thirteen applications were received for the position of assessor. W. H. Cooper's was accepted.

The council then adjourned to meet this afternoon at four o'clock.

SUPREME COURT

Supreme court commenced its sittings in Edmonton on Tuesday. His Honor Judge Scott presiding. The following cases have been heard:—

King vs. Potter, obtaining goods under false pretences. McDonald for the prosecution, Down for the defence. Acquitted.

King vs. Lemen Wojtowicz, obtaining money under false pretences, two charges of perjury and one charge of forgery. He was acquitted on the second and third but convicted on the first and fourth. Biggar for the prosecution and Bishop for the defence. He was sentenced to two years in Stony Mountain.

King vs. Monjin, assault. McDonald for the prosecution, Jamieson for the defence.

CREEKFORD

Mr. Wiethwick is trustee in place of Mr. Harris. Mr. Quast is a teacher. This is his fourth year.

Mr. McLean and family are still away in Nova Scotia and will not return for a few weeks.

Mr. Crosswell is in Ontario for a visit. Theodore Veret, Thomas Uley and Ed. Wilson are at the lumber camp with Peter Son.

Mrs. Shaw has been ailing for some time so that Charlie, having rented his farm, has decided to try his fortune at Fort Saskatchewan.

John Bushman has sold his farm to Mr. Calvert, and will soon reside at the Fort. Mrs. and Miss Anderson are slowly getting better.

It is expected that Messrs. Alek and Samuel Anderson will soon be building. Our school is not closed. There is no scarlet fever as reported. Star and Bloom field have residents under quarantine. The schools are closed. There was no service at either place last Sunday.

We extend our sympathy to Mr. Alek Haskell's family upon the decease of their daughter Aivy.

Mr. R. Davis is making an effort to have a church at Star.

The doctor is very busy, but has cold comfort these days, thermometer sometimes 40 below.

Our local thrasher man says his machine operated in to-morrow's 53, 55, 51 and 53, and range 10, 15, 17, 16 and 13. For the most part quality was not good and the average yield was wheat 9 bushels; oats 23 bushels and barley 21 bushels. He travelled 100 miles.

Mr. Harris' saw mill passed the high Star to-day enroute to section 7, township 57, range 10, where it will saw lumber, also at home after seeding.

Trails just here are not good. Saw is quite ten inches deep.

Mr. Konrad Rasmussen and wife have returned to their parental home.

Work is beginning to arrange itself for the newly appointed Railway Commission.

(Bulletin Special Despatch.)

Ottawa, February 25th.—British residents in Boston, who are organizing a line of steamers to run between that city and the Mediterranean, Canary Islands and Congo, are writing the State Department asking for the prospects of trade in Canada with a view of calling at St. John. Some Western parties are writing the railway commission, asking if that body has jurisdiction over rates between Winnipeg and Duluth, and if so applications will follow to remedy several grievances.

THE CANADIAN NORTH-ERN RAILWAY.

Winnipeg Tribune; M. H. McLeod, chief engineer of the C.N.R., today received a wire from Melford that the steel rails on the extension to Prince Albert have been completed to Melford to-day.

The aim of the company was to reach that place before operations were suspended until the opening up of the spring work. The grading has only been completed as far as Melford.

Steel was laid on this branch from Erwood to Melford, a distance of about 160 miles, during the past year. With the exception of work on the new bridge over the Saskatchewan River, no construction work is at being done by the C.N.R.

Melford is the centre of business in the fertile Carrot river district about seventy miles east of Prince Albert and also east of the South Saskatchewan.

The country traversed by the C.N.R., from the Dauphin to the Carrot river district is chiefly timbered, and has very little settlement, from Melford to Edmonton there is no break on the fertility of the country or in its suitability for settlement.

LOCAL

Writing under the heading shipping notes, the Winnipeg Tribune says, "The new steamer for the Peace River trade of the Hudson Bay Co., will be sufficiently powerful to tow a barge of about the same size as herself."

The north half of J. B. Lubbock's former livery stable site has been purchased from A. E. May, by a Manitoba gentleman who will erect a large three storey frame hotel building. Construction work will commence early in the spring.

A Pie Social will be held in Namsa Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, March 2nd, under the auspices of the young folks. A good programme consisting of music, recitations and readings will commence at eight sharp. After which the pies will be sold to the highest bidder. All are most cordially invited. Proceeds toward organ fund.

The Edmonton senior hockey team have definitely cancelled their proposed trip through Assiniboia and Manitoba. Satisfactory financial arrangements had been made but two of Edmonton's best players Sibbald and Wright were unable to obtain leave of absence. It is a matter of general regret that the boys were unable to make the tour, as their supporters firmly believe they can make a very creditable showing for themselves no matter where they might go. It is unlikely that even a shorter trip will be taken.
